ing ExaminationTWO DIFFERENT LAWSClose Scrutiny Private Banks

Not Examined

How the hands of the state bank examiner are tied, even if he were not an appointee of the Governor, with respect to the Bank of North Dakota, is shown in a comparison of the laws governing the Bank of North Dakota and private state banks. The trick which those who drafted the legislative bill regarding the bank and the "joker" inserted is easily seen in the comparison. These are the differences:

1. The state examiner is required, himself or through deputies to examine thoroughly into the assets and liabilities of private state banks.
2. The state examiner may, however, investigate only the assets of the Bank of North Dakota. He has no authority to investigate its liabilities.
3. With respect to private state banks the examiner is required to "so far investigate the character and value of the assets of each corporation as to ascertain with reasonable certainty that the values are correctly carried on the books. He shall further investigate the methods of operation."
4. With respect to the Bank of North Dakota he may investigate only the "assets in its possession and under its control, with sufficient thoroughness of investigation to ascertain with reasonable certainty whether the valuations are correctly carried on its books."

By inserting the words "in its possession and under its control" the law is held by attorneys to give the bank authority to withhold many of its records from examiners.

One Law

Chapter 23, section 5146 of the compiled laws of 1913 says: "The state examiner shall, under the direction and subject to the orders of the state banking board, exercise a constant supervision, either personally or through deputy field examiners hereinafter provided for, over the business and affairs of financial corporations placed by this act within the jurisdiction of the state banking board and shall personally or through the deputy examiners herein provided for visit at least twice each year, all of said corporations, inspecting and verifying the assets and liabilities of each and so far investigate the character and value of the assets of each such corporation as to ascertain with reasonable certainty that the values are correctly carried on the books. He shall further investigate the methods of operation and conduct of said corporations and their systems of accounting, to ascertain whether such methods are in accordance with the law and sound banking usage and principles, and report the findings conclusions and recommendations upon such examinations to the banking board and put in force and effect such orders and directions as it may make in reference thereto."

Another Law

Regarding the Bank of North Dakota, the laws of 1913, section 23, say: "The state examiner shall personally or through deputy examiners visit the Bank of North Dakota at least twice annually, and shall inspect and verify the assets in its possession and under its control, with sufficient thoroughness of investigation to ascertain with reasonable certainty whether the valuations are correctly carried on its books. He shall investigate its methods of operation and accounting. He shall report the results of each such examination to the Industrial Commission as soon as practicable, and to the legislative assembly at its next ensuing session and as provided in paragraph No. 3 of section 5146 of the civil code compiled laws, 1913, to the state banking board."

O. E. Loftness, the state examiner has made a report to the Governor similar to reports made by other officers, which are intended for the use of the legislature. The only report he made on the Bank of North Dakota is to give the statement of F. W. Cathro. Whether he plans to make another report is not known.

REVIEWS FARM SITUATION

Talks to Minot Audience of Problems That Are Facing
People of State

Minot, Oct. 16.—Real cooperation by farmers, along lines which have proved successful, is advocated by J. F. T. O'Connor, fusion ticket candidate for Governor, as the great constructive need of North Dakota. Speaking to an audience here, where he had a crowd double that which Townley had in another city meeting, Mr. O'Connor went into detail in discussing the co-operative movement.

The fusion ticket candidate is not preaching something new when he preaches this doctrine. He has owned stock in a farmers' elevator and has preached co-operation for years. Such co-operation cannot come through the machinations of politicians who adopt a farmers' program to gain votes with the intention of accomplishing socialism.

Mr. O'Connor admitted that when there is such a difference between what the producer receives for his products and what the consumer pays for the same products, there is a problem for the thinking men and women of the state to solve and while he pledged himself to an honest and sincere effort to make the state owned mills and elevators of North Dakota a complete success, he declared that the farmers of North Dakota should organize into an order of great co-operation organization that would embrace the entire state and through this organization dispose of their stock and their grain just as the farmers of California dispose of their fruit and the farmers of Denmark dispose of their products. He proposed having a state manager for such an organization and this state manager could invade the grain or stock markets with a selling power that equalled the selling power of all the farmers of North Dakota and then could demand his price.

Reviews Long Fight

In discussing the marketing problem now confronting the farmers of North Dakota, the speaker told of the long and tedious fight the farmers had made for a terminal elevator and reviewed the passage of the terminal elevator bill in the legislature four years ago, explaining that the measure called for the expenditure of $300,000, one-third of which had been provided for and the balance to be raised by direct taxation. He told how he voted for the measure at that time and of his surprise when Governor Lynn J. Frazier exercised his veto power to veto the bill, giving his reason that he was not in sympathy with the measure because it provided for a $200,000 being raised by direct taxation. Mr. O'Connor reminded his hearers that at the last session of the legislature Governor Frazier did not veto a measure providing for the expenditure of $200,000 for immigration purposes, the money to be raised by direct taxation. "Had that terminal elevator bill not been vetoed by Governor Frazier," the speaker declared, "that elevator would now be in operation and if we desired to we could add other units to it and make it larger, provided we believed the venture a success. Now it will require $700,000 to cover the cost of a structure $300,000 would have built four years ago. If any other governor had vetoed such a measure and delayed the program demanded by the farmers of North Dakota, he would be branded as one who had been bought by the grain combine and other interests. But when it was their own governor, the Nonpartisan league papers failed to accuse him of working against the interests of the people of North Dakota."

WHEAT PRICES
REACT TODAY IN TRADING

Chicago, Oct. 16. Trade in wheat was heavy at the start today, there being heavy and persistent buying by a strong commission house and prices advanced rapidly. After opening 1 to 2 1/2 lower the market rose swiftly above yesterday's finish but when a house that usually acts for a leading New York trade went on the selling side a break from the high point occurred.

Wheat continued under pressure, the investigation talk seemingly having been forgotten and the close was near the lowest point of the day, being 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents under yesterday's final.

MISS NIELSON IS HONORED

Members of the Southwestern section of the state teachers' association today went on record as favoring the compulsory instruction of thrift in the public schools. The motion adopted follows:

"Moved, that the Southwestern division of the North Dakota Teachers' association go on record as favoring legislative enactment making instruction in thrift compulsory in the public schools."

Resolutions adopted by the teachers follow:

1. That we express our appreciation to the people of Bismarck in general and especially to the ladies of the city for the courtesies extended to us while in Bismarck.
2. That we are proud of the progress that North Dakota has made in rural school consolidation and that we favor the consolidation of our schools whenever geographical conditions make it possible.
3. That we congratulate the Committee who made the arrangements for this successful meeting, and assure them of our appreciation of the splendid program presented.
4. That we commend the efforts of the county superintendents of our section and all others who are endeavoring to enforce the compulsory attendance law so that every boy and girl in North Dakota may have the chance to secure a common school education.
5. That we approve the action taken by the N. E. A. at Salt Lake City in July toward the organization of the N. E. A. and that we instruct our delegates to take the necessary steps for our association to become a representative body in that association.
6. That we approve the educational program of the State Department of Education, and pledge our support to the State Superintendent in his efforts to execute the program.
7. That we renew our loyalty to our state and our community, and to the cause of education in both the state and nation, that we wish to go on record as favoring Smith-Towner Bill now pending in Congress, and that we will do all in our power both individually and as a body to secure its adoption by our Congress.

Enthusiasm Manifested

The Friday evening session at the Auditorium marked the high tide of enthusiasm. After a musical number by the Mandan High school which was greatly appreciated by the large audience, the speakers of the evening came to the platform. President S. T. May of Dickinson, and State Superintendent Minnie Jean Nielson, Miss Nielson, who is spending all her time in institute work, arrived in town only in time for her address and left on the midnight train again for the field work.

As on the occasion of Miss Nielson's recent appearance before the Federation of clubs in Bismarck, her reception at the Auditorium last night was cordial. A beautiful floral offering was presented by the visiting women.

Miss Nielson's Talk

Miss Nielson took as her subject the very timely topic of Americanization, dealing with it from the standpoint of how best to insure the well being of our nation through the present generation which is largely foreign born. Treating her subject in seven heads of discussion, Miss Nielson made a strong and forceful argument in favor of conserving the youth of our state, seeing to it that their interests are made the primal matter of our concern, in order that our nation may be the power that the world expects it to be and believe that it now is the greatest nation on earth.

Morning Session

The capital building was very much alive this morning, upon the arrival of the splendid body of teachers for a session in the House chamber. This session was given over to an address by Chief Justice Christensen, and to discussion on "outside activities" by the specialists here for that purpose. A ringing appeal was made for better citizenship by Dr. L. H. Beeler, director of Chicago's training school, who is here on a North Dakota by State Superintendent Nielson for a ten days' tour of the institutes now being held all over the state.

Miss Collock on Thrift

"Thrift may no longer be termed an 'outside activity' as designated on today's program" asserted Miss Hester Collock, director of education and women's activities for the ninth federal reserve district. "Thrift," Miss Collock reminded her hearers, "has become, since the war, distinctly an inside activity. It refers to the nine organizations of women among whom the thrift work is being stressed. Miss Collock stated that for the past year these organizations have specialized in the furthering of thrift and that this year the same organizations are studying investment as an economic measure.

Rural Schools

President S. T. May, of the state normal school, at Dickinson, had the subject "The rural school teacher." "The greatest problem facing the rural school teacher," he stated, "is the problem of high schools are solving their problem by securing 'trained' teachers, but the worst lack of trained teachers for the rural school is national as well as a state problem. The trend toward the cities, the

RAIL MEN MAY JOIN IN

Lloyd-George Issues Statement to Country on Importance of Strike

London, Oct. 16.—Preparations for the great industrial struggle precipitated by the decision of the British coal miners to cease work went apace today. The machinery established by the government to cope with the crisis was working smoothly at full speed. The miners, for their part, were equally active. Some of them already had ceased work at the end of their shift.

Meanwhile the public was waiting anxiously for the real beginning of the battle whose outcome none could foresee since the action of the miners hits at the vitals of the country.

The issue of the gravest importance was whether the railroad men and transport workers would give their active support to the miners. The executive committee of the national union of railway men decided today to call a special conference of delegates for Wednesday next when decision will be taken as to whether the railway men shall support the miners through a sympathy strike.

Some of the iron and steel works in north Yorkshire have succumbed to the coal strike threat. With few exceptions all work on the tee side work closed today and about 20,000 men have been thrown out of employment. It is stated that all the work in this district will be idle after today. The local shipyard along the tees will be kept going for a few days.

Premier Lloyd George today addressed a message to the nation with regard to the strike. He said the government had done everything possible to avert the calamity, but that the miners rejecting all offers now were trying to gain their efforts by force.

The miners' federation issued a statement saying the miners had been forced into the strike because of the unyielding attitude of the government in the face of their reasonable claims which rest them without an alternative.

As the day progressed reports piled up from various coal districts that miners were walking out at the end of their shifts.

GERMAN COAL HELPS

Paris, Oct. 16.—The calling of the British coal strike has so far created little stir in France. As to how the strike may affect France it is considered that the regular deliveries of German coal and careful nursing of supplies will enable France to get through the winter in good shape. No doubt is felt however but that shipping will be hard hit.

Belgian Strike Looks

Brussels, Oct. 16. Miners in the vicinity of Mons have joined in demanding a wage increase of 5 francs per day. Belgium, as a result, faces a general miners' strike on November 1st.

Charges Brought in Two Courts for Infractions of the Law

Auto speeders and those who drive without licenses are the special objects of a campaign being conducted in Bismarck just now.

Police officers picked up a Mandan boy driving a delivery wagon without license last night, but he was allowed to return home this morning without being fined. F. Jordan, J. R. Roberts and F. Jordan are among those arrested by the police on speeding charges. Roberts paid a fine of $5 and costs and Jordan put up a cash bond. A couple of men charged with being drunk added some money to the city coffers this week.

William Myers, employed by the state motor vehicle licensing department, is operating in the city and has arrested several men on charges of operating motor vehicles without licenses. Justice Casselman has fined them $10 and costs. He refused to make public the names.

JAMESTOWN WILL

Jamestown, Oct. 16. A big demonstration, including a forty-five piece band, a life and drum corps, flags, pom-poms, fireworks and lots of good old fashioned noise, is being planned as a greeting to J. F. T. O'Connor upon his arrival in Jamestown here tonight. The "fare workers" will start in front of the Gladstone hotel at 7:45, following which a parade will form and escort the gubernatorial candidate for governor to the armory where he will deliver an address on the issues in the present campaign.

Some of the women have acquired hatred, they will be given an equal share in the demonstration and will join in the parade to the armory.

GAS SUPPLY FROM WHEAT STRAW YIELD

Kansas Has Raw Product to Produce Gasoline for Fifth of Demand

MANY SOLVE PROBLEM
One Ton Will Give Forty Gallons of Fuel

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 15—Kansas, now the greatest wheat producing state, may become the greatest manufacturer of motor fuel from wheat straw, thus adding to the farmer's income and utilizing a product of the soil which now is virtually wasted, according to J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture.

Based on estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture that one ton wheat straw will produce the equivalent of forty gallons of gasoline, Kansas in 1919—with an acreage of 11,640,000—could have produced the equivalent of 46,560,000 gallons, according to Secretary Mohler.

Wheat Straw Experiments
Experiments made by the federal department show, Mr. Mohler says, that a combustible gas can be obtained from the destructive distillation of wheat straw. This new product has been used for operating an automobile, for illuminating purposes and for cooking, and tests are in progress to determine its exact value and cost of production.

"If these experiments turn out satisfactorily," said Mr. Mohler, "it may not be many years before every farmer will throw the straw from his threshing machine into a still, from which he can draw all the fuel he will require to operate his farm machinery."

Plenty of Fuel
Farm experts have estimated that enough wheat straw is going to waste west of the Mississippi River alone to produce a new fuel the equivalent of one-fifth the driving power of all gasoline now manufactured. Experiments so far have extended only to wheat straw. Corn stalks are said to be richer in carbon than wheat straw, and if they can be used, fuel more than equal to all the gasoline now produced can be manufactured, it is believed.

"Some geologists have predicted a serious shortage of gasoline in the next few years because of increasing demand for motor vehicles and machinery," said Mr. Mohler. "This new gas may solve the problem of how power farming and transportation are to go on if the shortage becomes a reality. Whether or not this new production can be commercially valuable depends, of course, on whether the cost of production can be made low enough. The value of the product at present gasoline prices would be about $12 an acre."

MAY IS CHOSEN TEACHERS HEAD MANDAN IN 1920
high school building. After a vocal solo by Andrew Miller which was heartily received, Supt. J. M. Devine of the State Training School at Mandan spoke on the Reform school as it is and as it should be. Mr. Devine urged the need for change in the plan as soon as the necessary funds can be found by the state to put it into effect. He suggests that with the younger children who are becoming incorrigible, they should be kept in the home, with the mother, that the state should allot a specified sum for the care of the erring ones in a community, and that the police station or some such office in a community, be empowered to superintend the upbringing of the child, to see to home life, clothing, environment, etc., and make a report regularly to the state of conditions and finance.

Dr. Beeler of Chicago, took the place of State High School Inspector, C. L. Robertson who was unable to reach the city this morning. Dr. Beeler followed Mr. Robertson's subject in general and was interesting in his practical application of his subject. Supt. C. L. Coddling, of the Mandan City school, gave a most interesting and useful discussion on "Methods of discipline in the high school."

General Session, Afternoon
The whole group of teachers assembled in the city auditorium in the afternoon at two o'clock and listened to a short, brisk, and inspiring program. After delightful music furnished by the Thursday Musical club, S. D. Townsend, a specialist in the use of the phonograph, gave an excellent demonstration of his subject. This was followed by the chief speaker, the afternoon, Dr. E. Leslie Pidgeon of Winnipeg. Dr. Pidgeon's address was inspirational and greatly pleased his hearers. The business meeting was called for 4:30 and important matters attended to.

Dr. Pidgeon Speaks
The Thursday Musical club's part on the program was excellently rendered and enthusiastically received. The Reverend E. F. Jordan's remarks were listened to with interest. The chief address of the evening was that of Dr. Leslie Pidgeon, pastor of Augustine (Evangelical) church, of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

BLOOD STATUS OF INDIANS TO BE FIXED

Government Had Started 1,500 Suits to Decide Land Allotments

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 15—Hearing has been continued on the confirmation of rolls fixing the blood status of all Indians on White Earth reservation and confirming titles to their land allotments. The hearing in federal court here in November. The rolls were prepared by a commission created by an act of congress and this commission has been at work on them for years. These rolls, which are now to be confirmed by court decree, contain the names of 5,185 Indians who have been given land allotments.

Of the Indians given allotments, 226 have filed objections to confirmation within the past few days and these objections are now to be heard. A number of Indians, some of them deeply wrinkled with age, are here for the hearing.

Under the Clapp act, mixed bloods have the right to sell their lands while full-bloods were denied this privilege. Hundreds of Indians made affidavits they were of mixed blood in order to sell and they sold for far less than the land value and then quickly squandered the money. The government began 1,500 suits here to set aside titles to land given by Indians of full blood who had sworn they were of mixed blood. Many of these cases have been settled out of court by the purchasers paying the grantees the difference between the price paid and the appraised value of the land.

It is said that $500,000 has been paid in settlement out of court and objections to confirmation of the rolls now allege that in many instances the fact that Indians settled with purchasers has been made the basis of placing them on the mixed blood roll, instead of giving them the status of full blood Indians. This action, they contend, is an injustice.

DORT

Quality Goes Clear Through

Choose This Car as Your Car

Today it stands out as the standard of value in its field. No man, we believe, will deny that.

Among 75,000 owners the Dort has won a name for long and loyal performance at remarkably low up-keep expense.

Your own figures at the end of a season's driving will show measurably higher mileage per set of tires and gallon of gas and oil.

And so strongly and skillfully is the Dort constructed that even in stiffest travel duty, it requires mechanical assistance with surprising infrequency.

Throughout the entire design you will find over-strength and over-size where ruggedness is required.

The strong Dort frame is formed of finest quality pressed steel, 5/32 of an inch in thickness and with a width of 1 1/2 inches and a depth of 3 1/4 inches.

Reaching sturdily across from one side member to the other are three heavy pressed steel ties, hot riveted, and reinforced by massive plates at the corners.

Hard duty will not distort this huskily-built frame.

It insures the car against developing rattles or weakness.

Now note the extra size of Dort springs.

The front spring—another contributing factor to the Dort riding smoothness—is of the semi-elliptical type with a stretch of 37 1/2 inches and a width of 2 inches.

The rear spring is of the famous cantilever construction—admittedly the ideal type for the Dort wheelbase.

Especially are the Dort springs noteworthy for they have a total length of 85 inches as compared to the 105 1/2 inch wheelbase.

In a word—the Dort spring length is practically 81% of the wheelbase.

Let us arrange a demonstration drive at your convenience.

TRIBUTE PAID TO SCANDINAVIANS BY PARLEY CHRISTENSEN IN A SPEECH

Waterloo, Ia., Oct. 16.—Parley P. Christensen, farmer-labor candidate for president today praised immigrants and emphasized the Scandinavian contribution to the political progress of the west. "There are people, he said, who want the immigrants rushed to some plant where every vestige of their past traditions may be removed. They would have him geographically wash and sterilized as soon as he steps on Ellis Island," he said.

large mixture of the immigrant in the population that progress has been more rapid. Out here in these states of Iowa, Minnesota and Illinois, and the west in general, the ferment of development has been most stirring. "The Scandinavians are not only pioneers in the physical sense but they are economic pioneers as well."

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Intimation by attorneys for Carl Wanderer, that a confession of the murder of his wife and a "tragedy" had been extracted from the former army officer by third degree methods caused the better today that Wanderer would abandon a pre-supposed insanity plea and would deny that he shot his wife to death and that he killed the unidentified tramp during a fake hold-up.

JUDGE COFFEY EXPECTED TO ROLL UP BIG MAJORITY FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

The endorsement given in the primary to Judge James A. Coffey, of Jamestown, by voters of the Fourth Judicial district which includes Burleigh county, is expected to be repeated this fall. Judge Coffey had a majority of about 3,000 votes over his nearest opponent.

Born in North Carolina July 4, 1872, Judge Coffey went with his parents into the Northwest in 1888 where they filed on government lands. Judge Coffey was educated in Willamette university, Salem, Ore., and at the University of Idaho. He also entered the University of North Dakota, graduating in 1900, earning means of support during the day and attending law school at night. He came to North Dakota in 1901. He is a lawyer and farmer, owning a farm and supervising the farming of it himself. Judge Coffey was appointed judge of the district court by Governor Burke, which position he still holds by successive elections of 1916-18.

Generous support is expected to be accorded to Judge Coffey and Judge Nussle, candidate for reelection in the fourth district, by people of all political faith. His name appeared on the nonpartisan ballot. Both Judge Coffey and Judge Nussle have refused to allow politics to swerve them in their decisions, and although leaders of the Nonpartisan league have ordered a fight on them, many Nonpartisan league members support them in their stand against dragging the judiciary into partisan politics.

HOLDS NATION'S WELFARE RESTS IN FARM HOMES

Writer Discusses Recent Survey of Farm Life Showing Conditions

URGES NEW RECOGNITION

(BY FLORENCE BERNER)

The survey of farm homes as recently completed by Miss Ward tells an appalling story, and not one that the greatest cities have commonwealth in the world at the present time can be proud of. And now, what is our government going to do to rectify these things? Is it going to continue the policy of doing nothing, or is it going to see that the farm home is made what it was intended to be, a happy place for the farmer and his family?

Certainly conditions as revealed by this survey are a disgrace and a shame to any country that is the home of its people at heart.

On the farmers' prosperity depends the health of the country, if he prospers it prospers, if he fails it suffers accordingly. No country could long exist without the producer. No country can attain its greatest heights unless its producers are contented and happy. The United States must look to its farm homes for some of its best citizens. How many of our great statesmen, presidents, and other eminent men were once farmer boys? Practically all of them!

At least the farm woman's life is a hard one compared with her more fortunate city sisters. She is deprived of many conveniences which her sister in the city takes as a matter of course, and when to this is added those hardships mentioned in the survey her lot is a hard one indeed.

But who is to blame? Certainly not the husband, who must strive from early morn till night in order that they may have a roof over their heads. Everyone of these farmers loves his wife and children and his heart is sorely grieved to know they have so little to make life pleasant and bearable. But crushed between the upper and nether millstones of high production costs and low prices with the added evils of manipulation and speculation he is not in a position to help himself.

Gladly indeed would he install the hot water heating plant and the plumbing and lighting system, if he could afford it.

Each day he sees his wife's new checkered riding habit fast becoming more and more shabby from hard unrequited toil.

Each day too, as the clouds above gathered in it any wonder that crushed and broken he fills an early grave? Through any of our little country churches, look at the graves—yes, and you will find very few really old farmers lying there. The years of man upon earth were placed at three score and ten. How many farmers again that age? How many farm women live to be that old? The trouble is there is too much uplift work that does not uplift. Too many investigations that help no one except the ones making them.

A man cannot lift himself by his boot straps; neither can the farmer be helped by investigations and surveys unless something is done to correct the abuses afterward.

Flooding the farmers home with literature and pamphlets telling him how to make farm life attractive does absolutely no good unless he has the where-with-all to do it with. If he has this, he will not need the advice of the government on this matter. Cutting down the weeds does no good unless we dig out the roots at the same time. The government must get busy and dig out the root that causes the farmers business to stagnate. It must help the farmer get a fair price for what he produces. In other words it must abolish speculation in the farmers' products, and stop between him and the army of middlemen who fatten at his expense. Then a farm survey will tell a far different story than any previous one has told. Is it not worth while to see that the men upon whose shoulders rest the responsibility of feeding the world are happy, prosperous and contented? Is it not worth while to know that the farm woman has an equal chance with her city sisters? I think you will all say it is.

HIGH COURT TO HEAR CASE ON BALLOT MONDAY

Grants Restraining Order On Protest of Nonpartisan League Representatives

ATTY - GENERAL'S VIEW

The supreme court today heard the case of the Nonpartisan League, a law suit on the three-column ballot which being printed for some counties of the state and issued an order restraining the printing of the three-column ballot until further order of the court.

The petition was filed by W. H. Barnett and C. P. Packer asking that the Knight Printing company and W. H. Tucker, auditor of Cass county, be restrained.

While the Nonpartisan League leaders have served upon the situation to cry out that another dark, deep plot has been hatched up to hurt the league, there are many anti-Townley people who hope the supreme court will uphold the contention. A four-column ballot, if anything, would cause difficulty to the league voters in finding their independent candidates, they hold notwithstanding the fact that in the four-column ballots the name "Nonpartisan league" has been printed in black type under the name of each candidate. The Socialist however have the name Socialist on the ballot but once.

If the Nonpartisan league wins in its contention, its leaders, the anti-Townley men feel will not only have accomplished nothing and perhaps hurt themselves, but they will have to stand the odium of saddling several thousand dollars additional expense upon the taxpayers.

As the matter now stands three-column ballots are being printed by some contractors and four-column ballots by others. In Kidder county however, where independent anti-Townley men have filed for the legislature there will have to be five-column ballots, if the league contention is held up.

Would Cost More
It is pointed out that under the league contention, if the prohibition electors had been filed, the farmer labor electors and other political parties there probably would have been an eight or nine column ballot which would cost the state a huge sum of money.

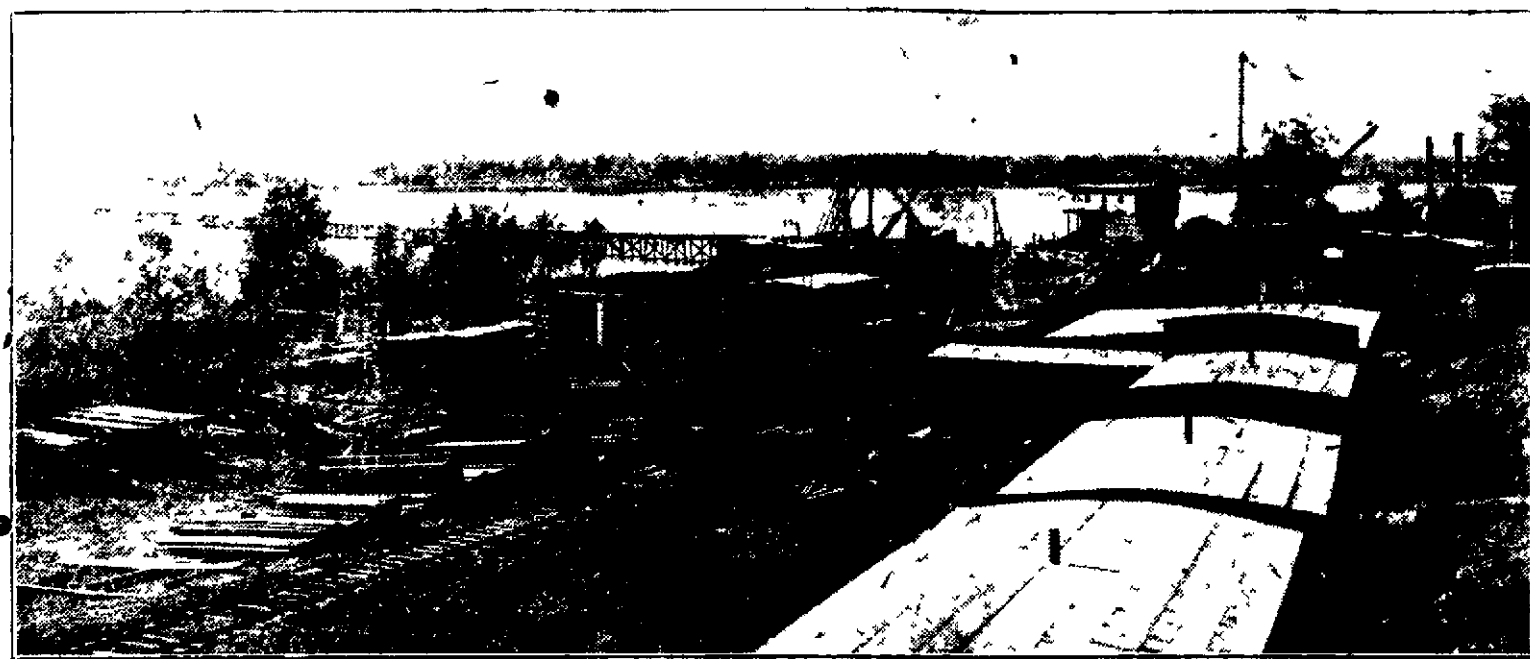

Attorney General Langer rendered a formal opinion today on the question to Secretary of State Hall, who asked for advice.

"At the present time there are but two political parties entitled to recognition as such upon the general ballot," said the attorney general. "These are the Republican and Democratic parties. No other party, cast a sufficient number of votes at the general election in this state to maintain its identity. It must therefore follow under our statutes, that only the republican and democratic parties are entitled to party columns on the general ballot."

There are two ways under existing statutes in which candidates may have their names printed upon the general ballot. One is through a party nomination and the other by means of a petition for an individual nomination. The latter method being provided for in section 501 of the Revised Code of 1899 which sections was held to be in full force and effect by the Supreme Court of this state in a decision rendered some years ago.

"The records in your office (secretary of state) show that nomination petitions have been filed designating five presidential electors representing the national candidate of the socialist party for the presidency of the United states in view of the fact that the socialist party has lost its identity in the state of North Dakota. Unquestionably the national candidate designated in the petition should be placed in the column of the socialist party. Your records further show that nomination petitions have been filed for the provisions of said section 501 in behalf of one candidate for each of several state offices. The candidates are likewise individual nominees by petition and are entitled to have their names printed upon the ballot as independent candidates in the column provided for that purpose.

What Law Says
The records in your office show that they have been presented to the department and duly entered in the records. One is through a party nomination and the other by means of a petition for an individual nomination. The latter method being provided for in section 501 of the Revised Code of 1899 which sections was held to be in full force and effect by the Supreme Court of this state in a decision rendered some years ago.

COTTON TRADE OF RUSSIA IS NEARLY GONE

Many of the Mills Probably Will Never be Able to Operate Again

BOLSHEVISM THE CAUSE

London, Oct. 16—Russia's pre-war cotton industry has suffered to such an extent during the revolution that it is doubtful whether many of the mills ever will be able to operate again, says Sir Charles Mackenzie, an English authority in the world's cotton trade, in an interview in the Yorkshire Post.

Based upon information obtained from an Englishman who recently returned from Russia, where for 11 years he was the manager of a large cotton factory near Moscow, Sir Charles estimates that of the 9,000,000 spindles running in Russia before the revolution not more than 200,000 or 300,000,000 are now operating.

The experience of the English manager of the Moscow factory were told as an example of the methods employed by the Bolsheviks in dealing with one of Russia's great industrial assets, the textile factories in the Moscow district. This particular mill carried on all the processes from cotton spinning to the finished product, 17,000 workers having been employed under normal operating conditions.

When the Bolsheviks assumed power the whole cotton industry was nationalized. At every mill committees were formed and finally, in October, 1919, a decree was issued that all who had been connected with the former owners would have to leave. With the experts gone, the mill stopped. After a time attempts were made to re-start it, but it was almost impossible to obtain raw cotton. Small quantities were obtained, which after being diluted with 75 per cent waste, was put through the processes.

The machinery now is in a very bad state in such a state in fact that it would be almost impossible to operate the factory properly, according to the information given Sir Charles. Whenever machines are damaged, other machines are denuded of parts to repair them.

Sir Charles stated that there was little possibility of English workmen going to Russia for employment in textile factories. Mills in Germany and Austria were turning out only from 25 to 30 per cent of the normal production, he said, and English workers faced the almost impossible task of making up for the four and a half years' stoppage of textile manufacture owing to the war.

BISMARCK TALENT STATE PROGRAMS

Prominent in the programs of the Educational meetings of the week are several local people. Miss Elizabeth A. Jones, head of the department of history in Bismarck high school gave a notable paper on "Modern methods in teaching history" before the Secondary Education section held in the high school auditorium yesterday. Miss Jones reminded her hearers that the time has passed when "anybody who is no good for anything else can teach history." The teaching of history, Miss Jones continued, is a science with special schools for the training of teachers of history. Various new methods were explained by Miss Jones and compared with the old text book and "pouring in" or lecture methods. Miss Jones denounced the note book method as a failure and favored the socialized method, the open text method for tests, and in fact every sane method calling for individual effort on the part of the pupil.

A charming program was arranged. Miss Men-

Tracy rendered some delightful solos, and Mr. Henry Halverson was recalled again and again after his ever pleasing renditions. The teachers express themselves as being highly pleased with the diversion from their rather strenuous duties of Teachers' week in Bismarck.

HEART TROUBLE

We often hear the remark, "That person is not good-hearted." This statement is true often in rare cases than one. If the heart is not right our health isn't right and naturally the person is not good-natured. Oft times heart trouble is caused by pressure upon the nerves supplying the heart at the point where they pass from the spinal column, resulting in impaired function. A stitch in time saves nine. By taking Chiropractic adjustments in time many cases of heart trouble which would otherwise become chronic are relieved and the patient restored to health. If you are not well from any cause consult a competent Chiropractor, have him remove the cause and nature will bring you happiness.

SCHOOL STUDIES

Once it was generally believed that certain studies were specially adapted to train the memory, the reason, and the other "faculties" of those who took them, and that the training received in any one such study would spread its good effects over everything.

That was the theory of "formal discipline"; and on the strength of it pupils were urged to study rigorously precise subjects like mathematics and Latin, even when it was conceded that these were not likely to be used very much directly in everyday life.

Nowadays psychologists do not believe that separate mental "faculties" exist, and many experiments have shown that the "transfer" of the effects of training from one field to another is very much less than everyone used to suppose.

And so the object of well-directed school work today is not so much to "cultivate" or strengthen minds and faculties as to teach the thing that is worth while to know, to satisfy natural curiosity, to give larger points of view and broader sympathies, in short to enrich the life of the pupil and help him to adapt himself to the world of things and people in which he will have to live.

This is simpler and more human, and the change of object gives a more dignified place in the school to things like music and dancing, which overcome social awkwardness and add to the joy of living; to domestic science and manual training, which give skill and courage to face the material world; to nature study and the social sciences, with all their human interest.

EXAMPLE

Carlyle had labored for months gathering material for his great work, "The French Revolution."

He had much of the Mss. completed, written in those biting sentences, for which he afterward became famous.

Written in long-hand, the mere physical labor of pepping it was not inconsiderable.

A careless servant destroyed the precious Mss. Carlyle was in despair. He flung his pen aside, thinking never to take it up again. For weeks he moped about, unable to overcome his discouragement.

One day, he watched a man laying bricks. He was just a common workman, except that he was in love with his work. He tapped every brick, he laid and leveled it, and the stroke of his trowel was a cadence. Every little while he stepped back and took a survey of his work, with the gratified eye of an artist.

Being in love with his work, he did not count the hours or limit the number of bricks he was to lay and his work grew rapidly under his hands.

Carlyle was thrilled with the man's attitude of mind and shamed by his earnestness of purpose.

He set to work again upon his great work and in a few weeks had recovered his lost ground. The book was completed and ranks as one of the world's masterpieces.

As the cost of living does down, the under-takers reduce prices so you can't enjoy both benefits.

THIS IS FOR BOSSES

Some newspapers are conducting "Good Boss Contests" into which workers are invited to enter the names of employers who have earned their respect and affection.

Now what is a good boss? For one thing, a good boss is one who cares for the good opinion of his men, and tries to earn it.

There may be extant some survivors of the old-fashioned type of boss who was fond of saying he didn't give a rap what his men thought of him. And in some industrial circles, the belief may still obtain that the most efficient boss is the one who is most cordially disliked.

This theory springs from the false notion that it is the function of a boss to drive and crack the whip and, by earning the dislike of his men, prove that he is a good, hard driver. Men work under him, but never with such a boss—and unwilling labor is not efficient labor. A boss gets no more out of his men than what of friendliness he puts into their hearts.

"Give me a boss," says a writer in The Lamp, "who has worked hard and accomplished much."

"Who has met the challenge of adversity with a glad smile, and listened to the flattery of success with a doubting ear."

"Who has never belittled the labor that gave him his bread, or fawned on the hand that made up the payroll."

"Give me this man for my boss and I'll not work under him, but with him."

Such a boss is the ideal of every worker. The yearning to work WITH, to be more than a cog in a machine, to play a man's part in the heart of every toiler. It is a foolish boss, an inefficient boss, who fails to give effect to this wholesome yearning.

Spaghetti broke up an Italian hunger strike. What would break yours, liver and bacon?

THE BIG WIND

When elderly Irishmen are assembled for friendly discussion, they frequently refer, in fixing dates, as before or after the night of the big wind. Many younger people take that phrase as a mere figure of speech, without much real meaning. They are mistaken.

The fact is that "the night of the big wind" was a real occurrence. It occurred in Ireland starting on the night of Jan. 6, 1839. Its force was so great that hundreds of houses were razed and ruined. And after the wind had accomplished a part of the destruction, fire, fanned into a roaring tempest, did the rest. Dublin was a terrible sufferer.

It was a storm of herculean proportions. Yet all old Irishmen knew it by no other name than the big wind, and they, and their sons and their grandsons, still so refer to it.

Of course, the great-grand-sons of these kindly sires might refer to it as "Some blow" just as same fellow described the Grand Canyon as "Some Hole," but not the old folks.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of the Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

ALSO IN ILLINOIS

North Dakota is not the only state in which party lines are being shot to pieces when the consideration of state questions is reached.

In Illinois, at recent primary election Small was nominated for governor on the Republican ticket by a small plurality over Oglesby. Small had the support of the radical element of the state, and his nomination was hailed as a victory for the radicals, and for Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, whose pandering to that element has been notorious.

Law-and-order Republicans in large numbers have repudiated the nomination of Small and have declared themselves for Lewis, the Democratic nominee. Illinois Republicans are not greatly enamored of Senator Lewis, as a rule, as he has been too closely identified with the national Democratic administration for them to be very enthusiastic over him. But they will go a long way rather than have their state fall into the clutches of Socialists and Communists.

While this is going on in Illinois, the same spirit is exhibiting itself in the opposite party manner in Montana. There the Socialist candidate, nominated directly by the Townley forces, bears the Democratic label. And for this reason Montana Democrats who are opposed to Socialism are supporting the Republican nominee for governor.—Grand Forks Herald.

THE SOCIALISTS' RECORD

Four years of Socialist rule in North Dakota have brought:

Wheat prices that are below the cost of production;

State flour mills which pay the farmers 50 to 75 cents less for their grain than it costs them to grow it;

State flour mills which charge the consumers $2 a barrel more for flour than the privately owned mills which compete with it and have to pay taxes from which the state mill is exempt;

A state owned bank which keeps $10,000,000 of North Dakota public money on deposit with the big city banks outside the state at a time when the money is most needed in North Dakota, and which refuses to deposit that money in North Dakota banks for fear they will lend it to the farmers and "not be able to get it back";

Tripled taxes which add still another burden to the high cost of living in this state, which high cost of living the state administrator has done nothing to lower.

Yet the Socialist gang which has been responsible for this four years of misrule, now seeks re-election as the friend of both the farmer and the consumer.—Fargo Forum.

The Experiences Of Hiram Wise

INTRODUCTION

"Hiram Wise" is a farmer of the old school who believes in the "emancipation of humanity." Being a forward looking man, he is one of the first to join the Non-partisan league when its organizers visited his community. While his varied experiences are told in story form, practically every one of them has been duplicated in real life.

"Bobs" speech has been written in dialect in order to carry out the general idea. It is "Hiram" who is doing the talking, telling the reader of his experiences with the Nonpartisan league in emancipating North Dakota.—The Author.

Chapter VIII
He builds a House

"Ever since we heard that the state wuz in the business of building, Mary Ann has wanted me to rent the farm an' move to town. She 'lows we are gettin' up in years, as fer me I'm still as frisky as a two year old colt, but it's different with her. She gits the rheumatiz every wet spell an' is always more or less complainin', so I thot I would do as she wished, 'specially as Silas Haynes' son-in-law had come up from Iowa an' wuz lookin' for a place to rent."

So I joined one of these Home Building clubs in which ten members agree to build homes as soon as they can afford it and pay down one-fifth of the purchase price. I had the money so there wuz nothin' to do but make out the papers. Well, of all the foolishness I ever saw that took the cake, frosting and all. The fellows in that business didn't seem to know the first thing about building. Somehow everything was haphazard lumber lying from the depot to the place where the building wuz goin' up."

One feller travelin' east for nail an' west for lumber, no organizashun about anything, looked as if they had hired the greenest fellers they could find. An' the expense for every house they put up it cost 'em the price of two houses in expenses. I wuz beginnin' to get scared, but I couldn't back out now, I had signed away my liberty for the next twenty years.

An' when the house wuz furnished it wuz o' rooms, hardly big enough to turn around in an' at a price of $1,000 a room at that. By the time the range wuz in the kitchen we couldn't hardly squeeze past, an' 'us bein' used to so much room out on the farm it did seem funny at first. An' Mary Ann wuzn't satisfied after all. She stood it as long as she

A young man who practiced medicine in a rural district became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce who afterward moved to Buffalo, N. Y. He made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and he put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state in the Union. For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has sold more largely throughout the United States than any other medicine of like character. It's the testimony of thousands of women that it has benefited or entirely eradicated such distressing ailments as women are prone to. It is now sold by druggists in tablet form as well as liquid.

WATERBURY, Wis.—"About eighteen years ago I was ill, doctor's medicine did not seem to give me the relief I thought I should have so I began taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it cured me in a short space of time. I have never had any return of my ailment."—Mrs. MARGARET SPANGLER, 730 Pleasant Street.

Too Weak to Do Anything

The ordinary every-day life of most women is a ceaseless treadmill of work. How much harder the tasks become when some derangement peculiar to her sex makes every movement painful, and keeps the nervous system all unstrung until life seems hardly worth living. Every woman in this condition, should profit by the experience of these two women whose letters follow.

Reading, Pa.—"I had organic inflammation, pains in the side and back which were so sharp that they pulled me to my knees, and I could not walk. I had an operation and still failed, and in the eight years I suffered I had four doctors and none helped me. My mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was then in bed, and after the first bottle I could be out of bed, then I took Vegetable Compound Tablets and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and also used the Sanative Wash. I still take the medicine and am able now to do my own housework. My friends say, 'My! but you look well—what do you do? Who is your doctor?' And there is only one answer, 'Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines which I gladly recommend.'—Mrs. W. M. STEIN, 560 Douglas Street, Reading, Pa.

Gainesville, Tex.—"For three years I suffered untold agony each month with pains in my side. I found only temporary relief in doctor's medicine or anything else I took until my husband and I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I mentioned it to a neighbor and she told me she had taken it with good results, and advised me to try it. I was then in bed part of the time, and my doctor said I would have to be operated on, but we decided to try the Vegetable Compound, and I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a dressmaker and am now able to go about my work, and do my housework besides. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial as I am always glad to speak a word for your medicine."—Mrs. W. BIG TEN TEAMS GET ACTION IN SOME BIG GAMES

Dope Pot Boiling But Predictions Indicate No Certain Results

INDIANA VS. GOPHERS

University of North Dakota Meets South Dakota at Grand Forks

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 15.—All of the Big Ten football teams will be in action today in games having a direct bearing on the conference championship, except for Chicago and Michigan contests. The "dope pot" seems boiling over and no one is certain of the outcome in most cases. The same condition is found with regard to the minor college schedule for the northwest.

Jumbo Steinhilber will send his Indiana squad against the Minnesota team at Northrop field, Minneapolis. The defeat of the Minnesota team last week by Northwestern upset calculations, and there is considerable uncertainty regarding just what Coach Williams has accomplished behind closed gates this week. What men he will start against the Indiana squad has not been announced but it is said that he has strengthened his forward wall and that McClintock, Rueben and Oss may be in shape to go into action in the back field. The Indiana team is reported in good shape and going at top speed.

The Northwestern-Wisconsin game at Madison should be one of the hardest battles of the day. Northwestern proved its worth against Minnesota, and Wisconsin scored a win over the Michigan Aggies. Both coaches will be able to put their first string strength into the game.

Iowa and Illinois at Urbana promises to be a cat and dog affair. Supporters of Iowa are satisfied that their team will come through with a comfortable win. Coach Zuppke has been making many changes in his forward wall and is uncertain how the combination will work in a hard game.

GARDNER TROTS HOME WITH RUN THAT MADE INDIANS 1920 WORLD CHAMPIONS

CLEVELAND.—The first run of seventh and deciding game of the world series was made by Third Baseman Larry Gardner of the Indians. It came in the fourth inning with two hits, a delayed steal and error by the Brooklyn pitcher, Grimes. The Indians made two other runs later but when Gardner crossed the plate in the fourth inning he made the run that clinched the series, for Coveleskie blanked the Brooklyn boys 3 to 0. The picture shows Larry trotting home with the most important run in the whole series.

At Columbus, Jack Wilce's Ohio State team is expected to win over Purdue, although the game should be close.

Michigan has the edge on the Michigan Aggies in the Ann Arbor game, and Chicago is expected to land on the top of the pile in the Wabash clash.

In Northwest college games anything may happen. Last week the dope was all wrong and all coaches have put their men through the hardest workouts of the season in preparation for games today.

Hamline university, short ender in its game with St. Olaf at Northfield last week, will meet its old rival, Macalester, at Shaw field. Both teams lost last Saturday. Stout defeating Macalester 13 to 0. During the week, Coach Hanson at Hamline and Coach McCallum at Macalester have put everything possible into the workouts. The dope favors Hamline just as it did last Saturday, but its only dope.

St. Thomas college will have the North Dakota Agricultural college as their opponents on the local field. Little is known of the strength of the North Dakota team. The only

Football Schedule

The schedule of football games for today in the west is as follows:
Iowa vs. Illinois at Urbana
Northwestern vs. Wisconsin at Madison
Indiana vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis

Michigan Aggies vs. Michigan at Ann Arbor
Wabash vs. Chicago at Chicago
Notre Dame vs. Nebraska at Lincoln
Hamline vs. Macalester college at St. Paul same Broskie's men have played this season resulted in a tie with the Jamestown (N. D.) college team. The game to have been played last Saturday against the Moorhead Normal was called off at the last minute by the disbanding of the Moorhead team. St. Thomas was defeated in their start last week against the River Falls Normal.

St. Olaf college, in view of its win over Hamline, should win over Gustavus Adolphus. Carleton gave Gustavus a bad beating last week, and unless the defensive work of the team is greatly strengthened St. Olaf should have two conference wins tucked away by sundown today.

Carleton will meet Coe college of Iowa at Northfield. This game is outside the conference, but is of particular importance to the Carleton followers. Last season Carleton was given a surprise when Coe ran over them, and the Northfielders hope to get revenge this season.

In North Dakota, the best contest of the day should be at Grand Forks, where the University of North Dakota will go into action against South Dakota state college. North Dakota has registered one defeat by the University of Minnesota and one win against Fargo college. Coach Davis has his team of veterans in line this time.

Fargo college, which was scheduled to meet Concordia today, has arranged postponement of the game for a week.

South Dakota will see some good football if this week's strenuous preparation bears fruit. Dakota Wesleyan university and the University of South Dakota are due to settle old grudges at Vermillion. Yankton college has an open date.

Normal school activities in Minnesota will be confined to the game at Winona between Luther college of St. Paul and Winona Normal. The outcome of the game is uncertain. The Moorhead Normal team, which disbanded last week just before the game with the North Dakota Agricultural college, is back in the running and is expected to get into action again next week. In Wisconsin, River Falls Normal plays Superior Normal at Superior.

The Montana schedule calls for a game at Butte, where the Montana State School of Mines meets Montana State college; Montana Wesleyan college at Helena has an open date and the University of Montana is away, playing the University of Washington at Seattle.

Polling 600,000 Votes in Six Pivotal States

In this week's LITERARY DIGEST the first instalment of THE DIGEST'S poll of 600,000 voters in the six big doubtful states of New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and California is published. The votes have been polled from all classes of voters with entire impartiality, and the results of the poll are extremely interesting because the electoral votes of these six states total 140, or more than half of the 266 votes necessary for a choice by the electoral college.

The article accompanying the tabulation brings out many interesting sidelights on the political situation this year. This week's number of THE DIGEST will be read and studied with unusual interest by men and women of all political faiths.

CHECKER CLUB OF CITY HOLDS A TOURNAMENT

First Round to Be Played Wednesday Night—Some Good Players Are Developed

The Capital City Checker club has been formed by a number of local players, some of whom have more than local reputation.

The first games for the club emblem will be played Wednesday night at Frank's. There now are 10 members of the club, and on the opening night of the play it is probable that the contestants will be picked by drawing. The winner will get a neat gold emblem given by F. J. Frankenhoff, and the winner must defend it each week.

Among the star checker players are A. P. Jones, who is secretary of the state checker association, E. E. Devol, who was a member of the Huntington, W. Va. club, and A. H. Marden, who belonged to a checker club in Boston.

Much interest is being manifested by the checker enthusiasts of the city, and some good players are being developed.

SUBPOENA FOUR

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The Cook County grand jury investigating the baseball scandal subpoenaed Arnold Rothstein of New York, and three St. Louis men to appear before it next Tuesday when it will reconvene. Rothstein was mentioned by several witnesses previously before the jury.

LYNCH AND WHITE DRAW

New York, Oct. 16.—Joe Lynch of New York and Jabez White of Albany, bantamweights, met last night in a 15 round bout which the judges decided a draw. Lynch weighed 118½ pounds and his opponent 117½.
